Code of the Hunter

If you would become a man, my son,
The Code of the Hunter you must learn.

To travel the wilderness, swift and ware,
And leave no sign of your passing there'

To sense a kinship with living things,
On padded feet or feathered wings;

To pursue without animosity,
To kill without trace of cruelty'

To take for your need and nothing more,
And never to fire 'til the shot is sure;

To aid the weary along the trail,
To share your success with those who fail;

To homeward turn, at the close of the hunt,
To thankful be for a day well spent;

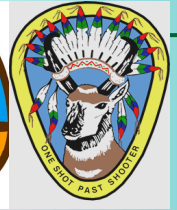

If you would become a man, my son,
The Code of the Hunter you must learn.

2017 One Shot Hunt Raffle Sponsored by the Ladies of the Hunt

The raffle sponsored by the Ladies each year has long been a successful addition to the Fall One Shot Antelope Hunt.

These gorgeous and unique items that are purchased are amazing. The Raffle provides an opportunity for those attending the hunt to “win” special items, either for themselves or to take home to spouses or family members.

In the past, it has been difficult to identify the donor of an item in order to thank them for their generosity and support. We are reminding everyone to include their name and address with their donation.

There is no item too small or large, since the One Shot can mail winnings if they are difficult to take home. (Cost of postage will be sent to you, if mailed).

Another way to participate is to send a cash donation, designated for the Raffle. Our committee will use the funds to purchase unique items for a broad appeal. Ask any raffle committee member, and they will tell you that, the phrase, “Shop ‘til you drop” has a unique meaning. (Celebrating with margaritas after shopping is their reward for numerous days purchasing and setting up the Raffle tables.)

We thank you in advance for your 2017 Hunt donation.

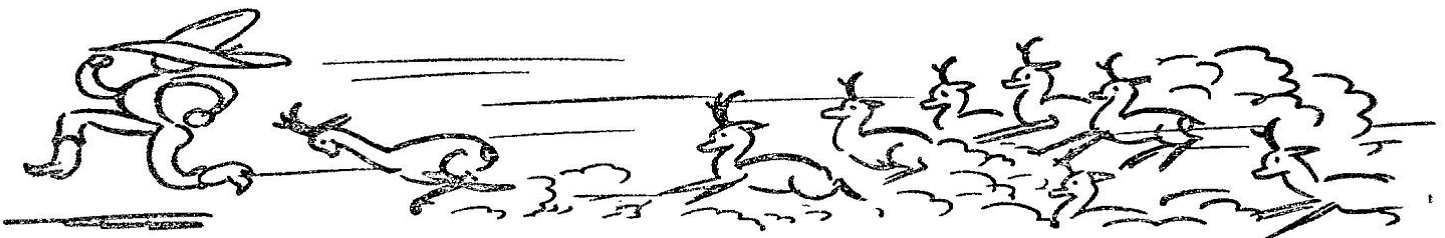

The address for the One Shot Office is:

Greeting to all Past Shooters

The Foo-Foo-Rah was held at the Old Baldy Club in Saratoga, WY June 8th thru 11th, 2017. We had a productive meeting with nine board members in attendance and one communicating via phone. Some fun was also had with golf, sporting clays, and fishing.

Executive Vice-President, Scott Harnsberger gave an overview of the proposed budget and a review of staff. The proposed budget shows a slight increase in overall operation cost, but a significant savings in bookkeeping cost due to the hiring of a bookkeeper Gina Colovich, and performing all services in-house. We have been operating without any financial cushion and felt we had to increase the One Shot Antelope Hunt registration from $600.00 to $700.00. The last increase was six years ago; this increase in dues was approved by the Board.

The Hunt Club has selected the teams for the 2017 Hunt and it is a very strong field. A special welcome to the new teams and I am looking forward to meeting all of you.

In this copy of the agenda I have asked the staff to include an article that described the three separate organizations which comprises the One Shot Hunt, Local Hunt Board, Past Shooter Club, and Water For Wildlife Foundation. I urge all of you to read this article which gives an excellent overview of the history and purposes of each organization.

I am looking forward to the 2017 Hunt which is scheduled for September 13th through 17th, 2017.

See you in September.

From the Desk of Alan Pettersen President, Water for Wildlife

Hello Past Shooters and Friends,

Hard to believe we are already into summer and September is just around the corner. The Foo Foo Rah was great and we had a good dialog on our Foundation's initiatives and fund raising. Thanks for the great discussion and good ideas going forward.

We had a great year for water projects due to a great year in donations. We were able to commit to 14 projects and 2 repair efforts – a great year. Thanks again to Ryan Amundsen, Wyoming Game and Fish Biologist, for his great work in researching the 17 submissions and developing our recommended approval list. Also a well done to our 'Office' folks for their support. The new project approval process, where we review and approve projects in late March, worked well and allowed us to issue approval grants in April so grant recipients could begin work in early summer.

Another key initiative we have underway is the expansion of our Museum which will allow us to expand and reorganize our display space, enhancing our ability to 'tell our story' about our heritage and the conservation impact we have to wildlife habitat through our water projects. The Museum committee and the Board have some initial designs reflecting these proposed changes which will be on display in the Museum during our September meetings. Having a facility that helps us educate and communicate our message is a great asset.

As we approach the September event I would like to challenge us all to contribute to our fund raising initiatives. Our Water Project program's continued growth, our Museum expansion project and our Educational mission (Interns and Scholarships), all rely on a steady stream of donations. As a group, we can be proud of our achievements, but I believe we can do more – we are only limited by the funds we have available to allocate to these programs. Thanks for all you do to make the WFWF auctions a great success – do not forget to send in your auction items to the 'Front Office' this summer.

See you all in September for a lot of good camaraderie and what I know will be another great event.

Sincerely

Alan Pettersen

From our 2017 Water for Wildlife Interns

Hello everyone,

I am very grateful for this opportunity to work as an intern with both Water for Wildlife and Wyoming Game & Fish to learn more about managing water resources for wildlife. I am currently wrapping up my Master's Degree in Rangeland Ecology & Watershed Management from the University of Wyoming. My research examines the effects of long-term wetland persistence in the northern Great Plains on bird diversity and vegetation productivity. This internship is a great fit for me to bring my passion for wetlands and water resources to Water for Wildlife and to learn more about on-the-ground construction and management of water resources to benefit wildlife.

At Water for Wildlife, I have been working with Jacob to coordinate over 50 participants who will help install four wildlife guzzlers in July on the Ferris Mountains to benefit bighorn sheep. One of my projects this summer is to capture the installation of guzzlers in the Ferris Mountains on video and create a short video for WFW about this project – stay tuned. Throughout the summer, I will continue to update records of WFW water projects and will work with WGFD Biologists to repair water projects and identify locations and species that could benefit from new projects.

At WY Game & Fish, I've been working with Habitat Biologists on monitoring and improving aspen stands on South Pass and Green Mountain, which are important doe/fawn mule deer habitat. I am especially excited to assist with installing beaver dam analogs later this summer in a creek to improve riparian habitat and prepare it for potential future beaver reintroduction (beavers are my favorite animal partially because they create wetlands and are one of the most bizarre-looking critters!). I also rode into the Five Pockets area of the Washakie Wilderness to retrieve a wolverine trail camera and realized that this is one of the most beautiful places I've ever seen in Wyoming.

I am looking forward to learning more about the different projects WFW funds this summer and working with partners to identify where additional projects would benefit wildlife.

Dear Past Shooters,

It is such an honor to be working for Water for Wildlife and the Wyoming Game and Fish Department as a summer intern. In my brief time here, I can already tell how unique this opportunity will be. I have just received an Associates of Arts Degree from Central Wyoming College and have transferred to the University of Wyoming to attain a Bachelor's Degree in Wildlife and Resource Management. As a student just entering many of my degree related classes, this internship provides me a great opportunity to learn about a variety of different wildlife management fields and apply that knowledge to my studies as well as to help give something back to wildlife and water resources across several states in the region. Thus far, I have been able to spearhead the organization of the Ferris Mountain Wildlife Guzzler in Wyoming and update various other water projects both digitally and in the field for Water for Wildlife. With the Wyoming Game and Fish Department, I was able to help carry out various habitat assessments, explore the complexity of raising eggs, fry, and fish at the Dubois Fish Hatchery, help the large predator biologist trap grizzly bears in Horse Creek area, and many other things. I have realized that I have just scratched the surface of what is out there and I am looking forward to all that is to come this summer.

Best wishes,

Jacob Steinski

SUMMER 2017

From the Desk of Erica Flom Executive Director

Greetings Past Shooters:

I am writing with eager anticipation for the upcoming 2017 One Shot Antelope Hunt! The culmination of 12 months in planning activities and events is something the entire community relishes with pride. I look forward to sharing in the continued long standing traditions of the One Shot Antelope Hunt - the oldest invitational hunt in the country!

This year has gone by exceptionally fast - there have been many shifts that continue to produce positive benefits for the Water for Wildlife Foundation and Past Shooters Club. With the introduction of Gina Colovich, Office Manager, Scott Harnsberger, as the new Executive Vice President, along with Water for Wildlife President, Alan Pettersen, Past Shooters President, Don Kennedy, and Hunt Club President, Paul Fonatine it has been a great year thus far with many productive steps in building fluidity and unity between our various groups. Thank you all for your commitment, dedication, and hard work!

Fundraising is essential the Foundation - as awareness grows for the Water for Wildlife Foundation name recognition will certainly help long term with generating reliable supporters and donors. The Water for Wildlife Commissioner's License Auction raised record numbers again this year reaching $15,000. which directly benefits the Water for Wildlife Foundation. Approaching year two of a phased process we are collectively learning every step of the way and making a difference in creating and completing obtainable goals.

Education is a new focal direction for the Water for Wildlife Foundation. This spring has been busy with numerous outreach/educational presentations. Looking toward the future with upcoming renovations with the museum provides the opportunity for showcasing new educational components for the Water for Wildlife Foundation, Past Shooters, Hunt Club and the One Shot Antelope Hunt - a welcomed and exciting addition for further education!

The respective 2017 WFWF scholarship recipients were most appreciative for the financial support awarded in the form of scholarships toward their continued education. Thank you Past Shooters for your continued financial contributions.

The summer intern program started in June with a joint time share between the Wyoming Game & Fish Department and the Water for Wildlife Foundation. Jacob and Joanna - (summer interns) were project leads with the July Ferris Mountain Guzzler Project - (a four guzzler/3 day event) - stay tuned for the full - picture laden report at the One Shot! It is always such a pleasure working with talented, energetic minds full of go get 'em spirit!

Sincerely,

Erica Flom

From Our Wyoming Game & Fish Habitat Biologist Ryan Amundson

I am writing this newsletter article today from my “home office” in Wheatland, Wyoming, where temperatures outside are hitting 95 degrees, and temperatures inside my home are at 90. This kind of weather can make a fella pretty thirsty. Speaking of thirsty...we are approaching the time of year when many of our seasonal water sources are beginning to dry up. Wildlife will start to move towards more perennial water sources and to tanks, guzzlers, and other man-made storage facilities to meet their daily water intake requirements. We’ve had a pretty good spring across much of Wyoming, with some areas in northwestern Wyoming still with deep snows in higher elevations. Winter was tough, particularly in the western 1/3 of Wyoming, resulting in high mortality in mule deer and pronghorn in some areas. In Wyoming we take the good with the bad, and know that hard winters also lead to good runoff and that our reservoirs will be topped off, springs recharged, and forage on the plains “belly deep on a buffalo”.

A big water development project on the horizon for the Foundation is the “Ferris Mountain Guzzlers”. Four guzzlers will be installed in the uppermost elevations of the Ferris Mountains, located north of Rawlins. The guzzlers will service elk, mule deer, and an up and coming herd of bighorn sheep. Currently, water sources on the upper portions of the mountain are very limited, resulting in long travel distances to permanent water sources. These daily treks can result in increased predation levels on wild ungulates, particularly fawns, calves, and lambs. By installing water sources near preferred bighorn sheep lambing cover and escape terrain, we hope to increase survivability of bighorn ewes, lambs, and rams. The Ferris Mountains have received transplanted bighorn sheep from Devil’s Canyon (located east of Lovell, WY) over the last two winters. They are doing well in their new homes, but can do even better with better water distribution and some planned prescribed fires.

On July 21 – 23, approximately 50 people representing Water For Wildlife Foundation, Bureau of Land Management, Wyoming Game and Fish Department, Bowhunters of Wyoming, and Wyoming Chapter of the Wild Sheep Foundation will gather and ascend the mountain to construct the guzzlers. Opportunities for “hands on” habitat projects that volunteers can participate in are sometimes few and far between, so this project is welcomed and we have a great turnout anticipated. Stay tuned for pictures, videos, and a full length story late in the Summer. Remote, motion detecting game cameras will be installed at the guzzler sites, and will provide good documentation of the wildlife species benefitting from our cooperative efforts. Projects like this one are a win: win for wildlife and the agencies and organizations involved. Thank you to Water For Wildlife for your financial contribution and donation of labor. Our two seasonal interns, Jacob and Joanna, have been hard at work planning this event during the month of June, and will be with us every step of the way until project completion.

I’ll plan to see all of you at the upcoming September events, and look forward to discussing how we can best meet the needs of wildlife in Wyoming and throughout the West with you.

Regards,

Ryan Amundson

From the Desk of Scott Harnsberger EVP Past Shooters Club and WFWF

Over the past few months I have had a great experience getting to know the inter workings of the Water for Wildlife Foundation and the One Shot Past Shooters club. I am surprised by the multitude of activities and business that requires the almost daily attention of the board leadership and staff. Although I am paying attention, I am a very small part of the interworking of both organizations.

I was happy to participate in the spring meetings held during the Foo Foo Rah in Saratoga. The wonderful work of the Water for Wildlife Foundation has resulted in over $72,000 in project support for the coming year. President Alan Pettersen, Executive Director Erica Flom, and Ryan Amundson of the Wyoming Game and Fish have done a tremendous job prioritizing and describing the projects, thus giving the board all the information necessary to approve the funding.

The other project underway is the planning for the remodel of the building to increase the display area for the museum, create adequate storage, and provide meeting space. The estimated cost of the remodel is $225,000, so the Museum committee has been asked to prioritize and scale back the cost of the project. We intend to have a tour of the facility and more a details for the Past Shooters that visit Lander in September.

The remainder of the summer will be dedicated to organizing the hunt activities for the Past Shooters and the Water for Wildlife auction, working with the summer interns, and promoting the organizations. Don Kennedy has asked the staff to better organize the registration process to be used this fall. He is doing a fine job working for you to enhance your experience when you attend the One Shot.

Finally, I would like to thank our office manager Gina. She is doing a terrific job keeping the books up to date and maintaining a daily presence in the office. Gina and Erica have been working diligently to create a better experience for those that do business with the office. Also local past shooters Carl Asbell, Mickey Asbell, Jack Scarlett, Gary Nolde and others have been very helpful and supportive.

I look forward to meeting many of you this coming fall.

ONE SHOT PAST SHOOTERS CLUB
Established 1955

Once you compete in the hunt and return you are a Past Shooter. We have 100% new hunters joining the Past Shooters Club, entitling them to return to the hunt for life. The first year of return after the hunt, you will be assured an antelope permit, as the new members receive priority. The Past Shooters primary mission is to support the Hunt Club and Water for Wildlife Foundation.

- Membership 525 Members world wide
- License Draw Process - All Past Shooters MUST apply for a Wyoming license through the Wyoming Game and Fish department, and be rejected, to enter into the remaining allotted license priority list.
- Returning New Past Shooters are prioritized a license, but are also required to apply through the Wyoming Game & Fish department and be rejected
- Any Past Shooter who successfully draws may defer their license to a sportsman or sportswoman that qualifies under the Game and Fish requirements to hold a license
- Past Shooters do not qualify unless providing proof of Wyoming Game and Fish rejection
- 95% of total licenses issued are to non-residents. All applicable license fees are paid directly to the Wyoming Game and Fish by the license holder. No profit is made by the Foundation or Clubs, face value of the license is paid directly to the Game & Fish.
- Many Past Shooters return annually providing physical and monetary support .
- Past Shooters provide world wide contacts to help perpetuate the hunt.
- Community: $90 thousand - 1990 spent to renovate the Lander Community Center through the Water for Wildlife Foundation
- Donate Meat to Local Food Banks and Soldiers over seas
- 2016 - Past Shooters donated $103,000 to the Past Shooters Club

WATER FOR WILDLIFE FOUNDATION
ESTABLISHED 1975

Water for Wildlife Foundation works to preserve and protect both habitat and wildlife in areas lacking the most vital resource of all - water.

Each Water development project is uniquely designed to take maximum advantage of location, conditions, and topography.

Through the careful placement, management, and upkeep of guzzlers, Water for Wildlife has helped improve habitats for the survival of hundreds of wildlife species.

- Total Committed to water projects: $1.9 million - $1.6 million of which has been funded (an excess of $102,000 in current obligations). Total Funding for Wyoming: $842,000
- Approved $72,000 in water projects in 2017 of which $48,500 allocated for Wyoming.
- Out of the 16 new water projects approved in 2017 - 10 are located throughout Wyoming
- 483 water projects have been built through the efforts of Water for Wildlife Foundation - (192 in Wyoming)
- Water for Wildlife Foundation currently has projects in 12 western states and South Africa
- Water for Wildlife benefits over 40 different species
- Partnering with over 50 different non-Government and Government Agencies
- Intern Program: Three years into the intern program. Water for Wildlife Foundation funds $12,000 annually - paid directly to the WG&F
- Scholarship Program: Every year Water for Wildlife sponsors (4) $1000 scholarships to Fremont County High School Graduates who apply and are currently enrolled to a college of their choice
- 2016 - Past Shooters donated $157,000 to Water for Wildlife
